“What an event to start out the holidays”!

From the President

Dear Fellow Members,

At the October meeting your Board of Directors reviewed the Club's financial status. While income has remained relatively level, our expenses have grown each of the past few years.

Our major expenses are for publication of our newsletter, The Times, and for the lesson program offered to beginners. The newsletter, which is published monthly, will cost the Club about $12,000 for 1992, and our lessons expense will amount to approximately $8,500. These two items alone account for just about all of the income received from membership dues. Of course there are other expenses in operating the Club, such as postage, special events, printing, equipment and office supplies, and a few minor miscellaneous items.

It has been suggested that we might decrease the cost of the newsletter by publishing less frequently. The Board considered this possibility, but was persuaded that the monthly publication schedule should be retained. It is our only medium for the dissemination of pertinent information to the membership, and to be current The Times must be published monthly. Likewise, our lesson program is vitally important to new or beginning players, and is one of the main ways STPC can support this great game we play. The Board feels this program should be continued.

With that preamble, let me say that it has become apparent that for STPC to continue to exist and provide the current programs for its members, it will be necessary to raise dues for 1993. Accordingly, your Board has voted to increase the membership dues for 1993 to $20. It is hoped that this increase will be sufficient to offset expected cost increases for several years. Incidentally, this is the first increase in many years. And it's still the best buy in town!

Elsewhere in this issue you'll find the renewal for 1993. Please take the time to complete it and send it in today. All payments received after October 1 provide membership through 1993.

Enjoy your game more by belonging to STPC.

Human Sexuality Authority Serves Up "Sex and the Tennis Player" November 12

"Sex and the Tennis Player", a provocative and timely subject, will be presented Thursday, November 12, at 7 pm by Dr. Gerhard Neubeck, a nationally recognized authority on marriage and family therapy.

Dr. Neubeck has written many books on human sexuality and is responsible for a wide range of dialogue affecting both seniors and their younger charges. His reputation as an effective speaker is universal.

The event will be held at the Richfield Community Center, located at 7000 Nicollet Avenue South in Richfield. Parking is free, and refreshments will be served at no charge. Dr. Alfred Anderegg, STPC director, will chair the proceedings.

All that you ever wanted to know about sex without fear of asking will be aired at this third event in the STPC Membership Appreciation Special Event Series for 1992-93.

Tennis Tips

This Month's Tipster: Paul Stormo

Don't Fear the Lob

In doubles strategy we teach that an attacking game that controls the net will usually win. Unfortunately, we often find that players will come in as far as the service line, but will not come any closer to the net. It is not fear of the volley that keeps them away from the net, but fear of the lob. Instead of fearing the lob, we should look forward to it for some very good reasons: First, very few players can lob well which means that most lobs can be returned with an overhead, a fun shot. Second, a well-hit lob will stay in play for 5 or 6 seconds which means that most players will have time to run the ball down and return it. Third, running down lobs is good exercise!!

If you have fear of the lob, take some extra time on the practice court for your overhead and try running down a few lobs that are hit over your head. With some practice you will be able to judge the approximate flight of the ball and will easily be able to get behind the ball for a good return.

Northland Fitness Center Courts in Bloomington

Mike Bosanko captains one court on Wednesdays from 10 to 12 noon. If you're interested in playing, either as a regular or as a substitute, Mike can get more courts. Call him at 881-0258.

Attention

There are only five more months before our annual roster, which includes ability ratings, will be printed again. Many of you have called me to update your ability ratings, but I'm sure there are many more ratings that should be changed. If you need help, our club instructors will help you. We want our ratings to be as accurate as possible. Call Dick Pratt, 433-3583, with your changes.

Roger Boyer's Annual Christmas Drill

All members are welcome at the Nicollet Tennis Center on Thursday, December 17, from 8:30 to 10:00 a.m. Roger Boyer, the Prince representative for this region, will hold his annual Christmas Drill together with Ginny Owens, Percy Hughes and Paul Stormo. As has been tradition, Roger will bring prizes.

Twelve Lesson Award

Congratulations to Renate Bomdale, the latest grad to complete twelve lessons.

Notice to new students: Please notify your instructor after twelve lessons.

For Your Information

Every once in a while we have a request to include a commercial insert in The Times. Unfortunately, as a nonprofit organization, we are not allowed to do this. Ads are permissible if they are actually part of the newsletter. A loose insert is not permissible, according to the rules and regulations pertaining to our nonprofit status with the Postal Service. We could lose our nonprofit status if we included them. Sorry!

Norm Diamond Appears on Public Cable TV

Norm Diamond, in his capacity as a member of the AARP State Leadership Council, appeared on Cable TV Channel 33 on October 6 and October 9, on the show "And Now...You Are Aware". He spoke on the topic, "Celebrating Cultural Diversity".

The copy deadline for the December issue of the Senior Tennis Times
is November 20, 1992.

Renew Your 1993 Membership Now

Renew your STPC membership for next year now by filling out the renewal form on page 5.

There's a new look to the form—we're asking for more information so that we can serve you better.

Duplicate Newsletters

To all you couples who have requested that only one copy of The Times be mailed to your house, we're making an exception for THIS ISSUE ONLY. The reason is that every member needs to receive the membership renewal form, so everyone is getting a newsletter. So, please don't call and remind us that we should only send one. We know. Really. Just remember to mark the section of the renewal form labeled "Newsletter Mailing Option."

Tennis Self-Rating

Please rate yourself accurately. To help you, we're publishing an explanation of the skill levels on page 6 as we interpret them.

Vacation Address

If you stay at another address for two months or more, let us know and The Times will be mailed to you there.

Lifetime Members

A note to lifetime members: No renewal dues are expected from you, but we do ask that you complete the renewal form, mark it "lifetime", and most important of all, sign the membership conditions. A current form is kept on file for all members.

Roster

Next March the 1993 Membership Roster will be mailed to all members in good standing. Your name will be in the roster only if your dues are paid. So don't delay—RENEW NOW!

The First Tennis Party of the Season Goes Over Big

Seventy members of STPC attended the Moore Lake tennis party on Saturday, October 17. MaryAnn and Frank McCabe chaired this event, the second event of the Membership Appreciation Special Event Series. A few comments from those that went were:

"Terrific party! All of us liked changing partners every half-hour; it gave us a chance to meet other people."

"The food was very tasty. The potato salad was as good as my wife's."

"There were lots of people there that I haven't seen at other events."

"The Moore Lake club was outstanding because we all had a feeling of privacy."

"I'm looking forward to the January 16 party at Crosstown. Count me in!"

Many thanks, MaryAnn and Frank, for a well organized tennis party.

Visitors to STPC Booth at Senior Options Win Prizes

Drawings were held in the STPC booth at Senior Options, which was held at the Minneapolis Convention Center September 25-26. Jean Wallace, the chair of the STPC booth, announced the winners of the prizes donated by friends of STPC. They are:

Wilson tennis racquet - Dick Carlson; Prince travel bag, Jeanne Jeffords; Racquet stringing by Ginger's - E. Glickman and H. Malinosky; one-year STPC membership, H. Kleinert and Phyllis Barrett; Nicollet Tennis Center gift certificate - John Conley; STPC visors - Millie Nelson, Charlie Ernst, Dean Harcid, Rosella Heif, Frank Jonges and N. R. Wisse; tennis balls - Josephine Lynch.

Burt Patch

Like many of you, I found out about Burt's death after the funeral. I'm sure this is why only a few of us attended. Considering Burt's service to the Club and the high regard and love so many of us had for him, this is tragic. We should have been there to say "goodbye." Burt was a well known colorful, lovable man. He was always ready with a word of endearment and a hug and a kiss on the cheek.

He served as treasurer in the early days of our Club and did a superb job. He lent us the talent for this work, developed through his many years with Cargill in the comptroller's department. Personally, I owe Burt a debt of gratitude. During an illness and a hospital stay some years ago, Burt made his time available to me, giving me comfort and good cheer daily. He insisted on running my necessary errands, brought me my mail and other reading material, and news of what was going on on the tennis courts. I looked forward to his visits. They were important to me and were a factor in my speedy recovery, I'm sure. I love you and I am grateful to you, Burt.

On the tennis courts, Burt will be remembered for his "curve serve" which no one could return. It was great, of course, when one had him for a partner.

We watched him slow down gradually on the tennis courts and when he began to stumble and fall frequently, we felt it was dangerous for him to continue to play. It took some doing to convince him. We knew he was hurting inside to have to give up tennis and time with his friends.

Whoever coined the phrase salt-of-the-earth must have meant it for people like Burt. We have been missing you, Burt, since you left our scene, and I want you to know that, like many others in our tennis club, I'm happy to have had your friendship.

Sue Larson, Ardent Activist and Feminist, Has Lifelong Love Affair with Tennis Game

The time was 1923. In Minot, North Dakota, nestled in a tree-lined valley between two hills, the Mouse River wended its zig-zag way to somewhere in Canada. An air of tranquillity pervaded the pastoral setting, enhancing the peace and friendliness of the locale. Children skittered on the playgrounds and parks, playing kick-the-can or hide-and-seek. They were innovative in their games without benefit of expensive equipment, even to the point of occasionally tipping over an outhouse to release pent-up energy. Homes were never dead-bolted and keys were left in automobiles, showing trust in a way of life which has long since evaporated. It was into this quiet atmosphere Sue Miller (later Larson) was born, not at the hospital but in Ethel and Ray Miller's home. She was one of five children, and her attorney father considered her birth a contract from God.

Sue was six when the Great Depression erupted like an earthquake, emitting economic tremors into every home. Minot's slogan, "Why not Minot?", became "Why Minot?" as families struggled to keep food on the table. It was a time for love and support for each other almost never equaled in our country. The WPA (Works Progress Administration) was a godsend that kept families from breaking apart. Have you mentioned the Great Depression to your children lately? Save your respiratory system!

Sue graduated from high school and went cross-town to attend Minot State Teachers College

Sue Larson, on vacation this fall in the Netherlands for two years. Then it was on to the University of Minnesota, where she completed her Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science. Her objectives were to seek a challenging position using her skills in program development, public relations, and marketing. Judging from the outstanding record she has compiled over the years, it would appear most of her ambitions were realized.

From 1988-91, Sue was Director of Development for the Minnesota Women's Fund, responsible mainly for planning and fund raising. She held a similar position from 1985 to 1987 with the Presbyterian Homes of Minnesota. Still on the same course, she headed up the Charles A. Lindbergh Fund, Inc. until 1985, preceded by leadership of the Minneapolis Children's Health Center. As a bona fide development director in every fund-raising effort she directed, she took on the Minneapolis Girl Scouts and Planned Parenthood of Minnesota projects. Her volunteer experience reads like a chapter out of Who's Who In America.

Sue has been on the Board of Directors of the Hennepin County Library Systems for twelve years, and served as president; member and vice president of the Saint Louis Park League of Women Voters for ten years; member of The Citizen's League for five years; AAUW member and vice president for five years; Saint Louis Park PTA Council and vice president for 10 years; an elder of the Peace Presbyterian Church and Adult Education Chair in Saint Louis Park for three years, and on the Westminster Town Hall Forum committee. The saying goes that "what is so rare as an organization Sue Larson hasn't sparked with her presence."

Amidst the flurry of activities Sue has engaged in, there was her marriage to Attorney Raeder Larson resulting in five accomplished children. She was subsequently divorced 14 years ago, but the family is closely knit.

Her lifelong love affair in tennis started in Minot on the Eastwood the fourth member of the STPC (she lived in Jack Dow's complex, and that may provide a clue). She wrote the first bylaws of the organization and compiled the first membership roster. She served on the first Board in 1983, and is currently

She has a determination to provide senior tennis players more opportunities to learn and socialize. To this end, she organized the ambitious Membership Appreciation Special Event Series to further education and fun for STPC members. Beyond tennis, her hobbies include reading historical novels, playing bridge and encouraging school library expansion.

Her dedication has resulted in raising over fifty million dollars for worthwhile causes.

Growing up in Minot established values for Sue that have given her strength and a sense of loyalty to friends. There was an environment in Minot (don't forget it's also your scribe's home town) for a time reminiscent of John Steinbeck's book "East of Eden" (subsequently a movie with James Dean). Not well known today, but nevertheless entombed in the city's history, is the fact that Minot had a three-block long, red-light district. (You can well imagine there were no economic problems in the town.)

Sue represents the best Minot has offered to the Twin Cities, as her accomplishments have shown. She is a warm and compassionate human being who enjoys seeing her tennis friends benefit from the programs she has created as Vice President for Activities. She is a valuable asset to all who meet her.

Sweet Sue, "Why Not Minot?"
The State Fair is on next July!

Norm Diamond

Park clay courts. She became a member of the Minot Clay Courts Club because there were no sports available to women. While attending the U of M, she continued to play recreational tennis. The Larsons always had tennis games going (coincidentally, their four sons were all captains of the Saint Louis Park High School tennis team).

As an early member of the North Star Tennis Club (her sons had part-time jobs there), she began to refine her game and take it more seriously, still believing she could improve her skills with practice and drills. She is currently on the fledgling North Star Senior Masters Tennis team that gives women over 50 an opportunity to play.

Sue has the distinction of being a board member and Vice President of Activities.

She went to Wimbledon with the Dow group in 1983. Other ventures with Smilin' Jack include the U. S. Open in 1986 and the French Open the next year. She has been going to the Naples World Tennis Center for eight years, and last year played with a group in Palm Island, Florida. Minneapolis summers find her on the courts every day without fail, barring inclement weather.

Sue's philosophy is reflected in her career as development director and volunteer for many notable organizations. Her dedication has resulted in raising over $50 million for worthwhile causes. This energy and determination carries over into her tennis activities.

Nick Pappas Subject of Article in Tennis USTA

Member Nick Pappas of Minneapolis was written up in Tennis USTA, supplement to Tennis magazine, in the October issue. He is well known in Northwestern Tennis Association circles for his many activities as co-founder of the Urban Tennis Program, as umpire at world tour matches, as a volunteer, as a tennis teacher, as a college tennis coach, as a paraprofessional in the Minneapolis school system, and on and on.

The article on this 70-year-old vital, healthy, gentle man concludes with this: "The next time you see Nick, get an update on his activities, and thank him for his many years of service to tennis."
