

Want to donate? Help clean up? Here are some ideas

This is an achingly painful moment in what has been an acutely painful year. If you are interested in supporting rebuilding efforts, working for racial justice or assisting with local hunger relief, here is a list of a few organizations accepting donations of time, money and supply,

- YWCA Minneapolis is collecting personal hygiene, home, baby and other supplies every Tuesday and Friday 11:00 am – 2:00 pm. Volunteers are also needed.
- We Love Lake Street is collecting monetary donations to help rebuild Lake Street's small businesses and community organizations. The effort is being organized by the nonprofit, Lake Street Council. Organizers assure that 100 per cent of funds collected will help go toward small businesses and nonprofits in the Lake Street community
- The Neighbors United Funding Collaborative, a nonprofit fundraiser helping the Midway/Hamline Coalition, is helping the Midway + Union Park small business and nonprofit community rebuild the storefronts and repair the businesses in need.
- Black Visions Collective works to improve the Twin Cities for black communities.
- Second Harvest Heartland provides hunger relief for the region.
- This interactive map shows the locations and status of Twin Cities organizations that are both accepting and distributing donations of food, personal hygiene and child care items.
